Dear friends, partners and colleagues,

It's been 25 years since we sent our enterprising little rabbit Felix off on his first trip. It was the start of an un-precedented success story. Today, many readers of that first book are starting families and looking to pass on their childhood memories to their own children – and those memories include the Felix stories. That's why we want to celebrate Felix's birthday with you in 2019. Enjoy the new adventure A Swiss Journey with Felix as well as the wonderful jubilee edition of the classic Letters from Felix!

Of course, we wouldn't be as successful today if we were just carrying on with tried-and-tested formulas. All of us at Copenrath share Felix's curiosity and his enterprising nature. And that means that once again, there are also plenty of new characters, stories and ideas to look forward to.

We are all only too familiar with fits of rage both major and minor. The anger builds up slowly, like a distant rumbling and grumbling, getting closer and closer until it breaks over us with full force. What should we do when the red mist descends? Our new picture-book character The Grumbletroll is here to help with that rumbling storm in your belly.

Mats has to make some drastic changes when his beloved Grandpa suddenly falls ill and the nasty neighbours want to sell the farm's animals. On the spur of the moment, he loads the dog, the Shetland pony, the chickens and the sheep into an old boat – and thus begin The Adventures of Mats Holmberg. Meja Mermaid author Erik Ole Lindström takes us and readers aged six and up off into a wonderful Swedish idyll.

Ben, the new boy in Marie's class, seems just perfect. No one has ever understood her like he does. And no wonder: Ben is an artificial intelligence android, programmed to register and react to her and her classmates' desires. But Marie and the others don't have a clue about this. In his Young Adult novel I Can See U, Matthias Morgenroth takes a skilful look at the question of what happens when algorithms make a grab for power.

Your Copenrath rights team is ready to support your publishing objectives with samples, pricings and schedules for our novelties and strong backlist titles.

- Up to the minute subjects: artificial intelligence and data misuse
- Feelings for an android – a threat, or a perfect partner?
- Gripping storytelling backed by comprehensive research from journalist Matthias Morgenroth

Marie is fascinated by Ben from the very start. He's so perfect! After just a short while, he seems to know her better than anyone. But what Marie and her friends don't know is that Ben isn't real: he's an AI android. Deployed as a test case in her class, he discovers his classmates' secret desires and is supposed to stimulate consumption among young people perfectly. Ben makes wishes come true. But not just material wishes – soon, fake pictures are doing the rounds in the class chat group, and Marie's favourite teacher ends up with the wrong photo at the wrong time on his smartphone. By the time the friends finally start to have their suspicions, it's almost too late: Ben, a learning system, is becoming independent. Marie discovers the truth about Ben – but she still can't let him go ...

ON THE ROOFS OF THE WORLD

- Up-to-the-minute subject
- Thrills and dicing with death: Teenage thriller in the world of the 'roofers'
- How far would I go for my first love?

"They climb onto roofs, balance on cranes and post the videos on the internet: so-called roofers perform their daring stunts in the attempt to break all boundaries."

Alice is horrified when she discovers that her new boyfriend, Nic, is a 'roofer' – someone who performs acrobatics on the highest roofs and structures in the city, and risks his life every day. And when Nic's ex-girlfriend suddenly shows up, determined to prove her love with a risky stunt, Alice is faced with a dilemma. How far would she go to prove her love? And does she even have to?

- A fairy-tale adventure like Three Hazelnuts for Cinderella, as gripping as The Red Queen
- Special setting in an enchanted winter world
- An unusual heroine breaks free of society's constraints

In the land of eternal snow, the event of the year has almost arrived: the great horse race through the mountains into the Valley of Spring. Ažleah, known as Ash, dreams of taking part on her stallion Dalibor. But only the young men, the "princes" of the land, are admitted. Ash isn't satisfied with her place in life: she secretly takes a job as a stable hand on one of the most well-regarded farms and smuggles herself onto the list of riders. The evening before the race, the legendary Princes' Ball takes place, and at the party Ash meets Kuba, the farmer's son. It's love at first sight for both of them ... But Kuba is the competition favourite – which makes him Ash's fiercest opponent!

- Second book in the new series of true stories and special bonds between horse and human
- Trendy topic: fascinating, wild Mustang horses and their highly artistic tricks
- Based on a true story of Tanja Riedinger

15-year old Sam keeps waking up from the same dream, her heart beating: a herd of wild horses is galloping across the endless vastness of the American West, and she is part of it. At the same time, her real life is a mess. Her beloved Andalusian mare Alegria has a movement disorder and Sam isn't allowed to ride her – all despite the two have been through so much together and have won over a large fan base on YouTube with their tricks. Sam is devastated. To cheer her up, her parents give her a trip to Oregon, U.S.A., to spend her summer holidays working at a horse ranch. Riding out in the unspoiled nature Sam encounters a herd of wild horses, and amongst the free Mustangs she spots the horse she knows from her dreams.

Tobi hates Alexandra! She’s pretty, smart, cool, and she’s been everywhere in the world because her father is a pilot. And as if that weren’t enough, she’s better at football than he is, too. After one decisive match, Tobi yells at Alexandra in frustration: he doesn’t care if she’s a better player or if she could make it round the world in 80 days with Daddy’s air miles! But Alexandra’s answer takes him by surprise: “Eight days. I can get around the world in eight days. Shall we make a bet? And you can come with me as my witness.” Before he knows what’s happening, Tobi is on a plane to Hong Kong. Destination: once round the world. But Tobi gradually realises that there is more behind the bet than just a desire for adventure. Alexandra is keeping a secret from him – and it gets the two of them into a world of trouble ...

- A girl searching for a proper home
- Touching story by Annette Langen
- Issues of mindfulness and time spent with family – wrapped up in a fast-paced adventure

Since her mother’s death, Skye has been living in a boarding school, while her father’s work takes him all over the world. After a massive row with super-bitch Yolanda, who Skye now has to share a room with, she comes up with a plan: she’s going to run away and live with her father. It’s not enough to skype him regularly – she needs someone to give her a hug. And a proper home. But is that something her father, who lives in a private jet, can offer her? And where is she supposed to go to school, if she’s constantly jetting around the world? What sounds like a dream life to start off with turns out to be a plan with a lot of drawbacks. But Skye won’t give up her fight to hold onto the little bit of family she has left.

- Crazy about New York author Katrin Lankers takes on a new genre

Claire and Lulu are "soul mates": they've done everything together ever since they met. They've been looking forward to the big school party for weeks, but then they make a total embarrassment of themselves – right in front of the two boys they are secretly in love with. If only they could turn back time! The friends are more than a little amazed when they manage to do just that, with the help of an inherited piece of jewellery. They quickly discover the practical uses of the time-turner. Such as when you have to iron out the mistakes in your maths homework ... In their excitement, however, they don't notice the danger they are in: there is someone who wants to own the time-turner at any cost. Almost too late, Claire and Lulu realise that it isn't just their friendship at stake ...

- Unusual cover design with die-cut shape and shimmering foil
- Setting: sinister and enchanted theatre world

A mysterious whisper floats through the walls of the old castle where Merle is taking part in a theatre workshop – it must be the ghost of the past! When Merle and her friends find some magically beautiful antique costumes, they decide to put on a play from a long-forgotten past. But there is something creepy in the air: why does Merle feel such a nameless dread when she meets the old Count, the castle's owner? Why do they succeed at everything they do, as if by magic, as soon as they put on the costumes? And is it really still their own play that they are rehearsing – or is it the costumes' ancient, cruel game?

Once a year – when the wishing tree blossoms in all the colours of the rainbow – a big festival takes place in the Unicorn Paradise. Everyone who lives on the island is allowed to whisper their greatest wish to the tree, because the tree bears a wish-flower for each of them. But at the high point of the festival the three little unicorns Vanilla, Rosie and Blue make a terrible discovery: the three flowers meant for them have disappeared without a trace! Sun Unicorn Suria offers her help. With her special sense for finding treasure, will she be able to rescue the unicorn festival?

- More than 30,000 copies sold already
- Based on an idea by Princess Lillifee author Monika Finsterbusch
- Strong presence with tie-in products from Spiegelburg

The little unicorns Vanilla and Blue are worried as they look at their sick sister. What can be wrong with Rosie? Is there something the matter with the lucky clover, to which Rosie has a magical connection? In the flower meadow, Flora the flower unicorn tells them that strange creatures have eaten big holes in the clover fields overnight. Strange creatures? Vanilla, Rosie and Blue listen with alarm. Intruders? Is it not just Rosie, but the whole of Unicorn Paradise that's in danger? It's the start of a new adventure.

© Anna Blum

Anna Blum writes stories for children. She lives in a little village with her family and lots of animals. From her desk, Anna Blum can see out into a lovely enchanted garden. And sometimes, at least so it seems to her, all kinds of mythical creatures come to play there. Among them, a whole lot of little unicorns.

 Growing up with
COPPENRATH
The right book for every age

0-6
months Arrival and wonder

The newborn discovers the world with all their senses. Cloth books and fan-fold books with clear images and contrasting colours promote baby's perceptive faculties and soon become beloved companions.

6-12
months Crawling and recognition

Baby's world gets bigger! They grasp and investigate their favourite books and articles for play with better dexterity, prompting enthusiastic comments on beloved images.

12-18
months Walking and mastering

Da, da! Recognizing and even sounding familiar things in a book – babies' development makes enormous advances. Reading aloud provides young world explorers with a sense of security.

18-24
months Speaking and discovering

A new word every day! Little word wizards comprehend more and more linguistic connections. Increasingly skillful fingers ensure that every day experiences are discovered – behind flaps, in sliders or moving elements and much more!

24+
months Conversation and understanding

Now the little ones are getting big! Board picture books stimulate their imaginations with more complex picture-worlds and variety, and role models help them better to understand their daily lives.

Sabine Kraushaar was born in Maastricht in the early 1970s. She had her first "encounter" with a brush and paint at the age of two. After that, no wallpaper or carpet was safe from her. She realised her dream of becoming an illustrator in 1996: following her degree at the Academie Beeldende Kunsten in Maastricht and an internship in an Amsterdam graphic design studio, her first children's book was published in Germany.

- First picture books with hard-wearing pages
- Strong everyday topic
- A truly imaginative story

In Fairyland there are Dummy Fairies, Tooth Fairies – and of course, Nappy Fairies! Elli is one of them. But Elli has a little problem: she's still in nappies herself – it's so practical and so comfy! This is the story of how Elli manages to part with her nappy just like every other child, told with great humour and warmth.

"Why do you call me little treasure?" the little bear asks his mummy. "Because you're everything Daddy and I ever wished for. You're the most important thing in the world to us!" Now the little bear has more questions: Did Mummy and Daddy love him this much from the beginning? Would they still love him if he did something bad, and will they love him for the rest of his life? For all those who can't tell each other often enough how much they love each other.

This little piggy went wild ... Piglet isn't tired – unlike his mummy. She trudges around after him as he dashes into the henhouse, jumps over the sheep with great bounds, and rolls excitedly down the slope – dreaming of finally getting some peace and quiet. But when Piglet bumps into Wild Willy, she is suddenly wide awake ...

A book for all children who don't want to go to bed (yet) – and their very tired parents.

The Bandits' Treasure · Vol. 4

NEW

ISBN 978-3-649-62995-5

Crumbs and crikey! Thunderfart is completely beside himself when he hears on the radio that the Thunderhouse Windmill is to be torn down: his great uncle Rabatzki once hid some hard-won booty somewhere near there. Gold makes you happy, the wild bandit thinks, so there's no question about it – he has to dig up the treasure before the building work starts. But Willi Grumaldo and his brothers Winni and Wolfi are already waiting at the windmill to snatch the gold from them. A true bandit captain isn't beaten that easily, though ... Walko brings us another witty, fast-paced, exciting story about the wild bandit Captain Thunderfart and his gang, complete with funny illustrations. And in the end, it becomes clear that gold does make you happy ... as long as you share it!

The Grumbletroll · Vol. 1

NEW

ISBN 978-3-649-62893-4

What a splendid life – if it wasn't for the stupid hut that falls down even though the little troll went to so much trouble to build it. Or the stupid tree that he can shove and shake as much he likes without a single apple falling.

The little troll gets terribly angry. It's like there's a storm inside him. With lightning shooting out of the sky and thunder rumbling and grumbling mightily. Yes, that's exactly how he feels: he's a troll who rumbles and grumbles. A grumbletroll!

The Grumbletroll ... isn't Grumbling Today! · Vol. 2

NEW

Of course he will! The Grumbletroll makes a bet with his friends. But when they swipe a delicious cake from under his nose, all he wants to do is scream and stamp his feet. Then he remembers the bet – and puts the grumblestorm aside. He even manages not to grumble when a frightened crow poos right on his nose, and when he trips over a branch and falls flat on his face. But when his friends laugh at him, he can't take it any longer. Laughing at people is really mean. Now the Grumbletroll wants to grumble and rumble and thunder and flash with anger. He wants to throw himself on the ground and yell. And that's exactly what he does! Oh no! Will his friends be able to make it up to him ...?

A Story About Bullying in Pre-school

5+ / 34 pp. / 22 x 25 cm / hardcover / with fold-out page / € 15.00

ISBN 978-3-62849-1

Former edition sold to: China (Simplified)

- Topic: bullying in pre-school
- Gives courage to break the silence

Tommi doesn't like going to pre-school, now that Johannes has joined his group. Johannes has already called him a dork, tripped him up and laughed at him. And the other children laughed too. Mum doesn't know anything about this. Nor does Nina, the pre-school teacher. But if Tommi tells on him, it will all get much worse ... It's completely normal for children to argue. But if a child is systematically excluded, this becomes bullying. Tommi's story will make children, parents and carers alike sensitive to this issue. It gives children the courage to break their silence, plus tips on managing their anger, or practising mutual respect and interacting positively with each other.

Flori the bird gets stranded in Rosaria and takes Princess Lillifee with him to his far-off home. But no sooner have they reached the green jungle than Flori just flies off – and to make matters worse, Princess Lillifee then gets hit on the head by a coconut and falls to the ground, unconscious. A little monkey steals her glittering crown and her magic wand, and runs away with them. Luckily Moma, the mummy monkey, finds Lillifee and takes her to the animal hospital. She soon feels better. But the little fairy can't remember her name – she doesn't know who she is, or where she lives. All the same, she is still a friendly, helpful fairy at heart: she starts helping out in the hospital, looking after sick and injured jungle animals. After a while, Flori suddenly turns up again. He learns what has happened and fetches Pupsi Pig from Rosaria. When the little fairy sees her friend, her memory returns. The little monkey sheepishly gives back her crown and wand, and after a jolly jungle party, Pupsi and Lillifee head for home.

A warm-hearted story about helping and being there for each other, which encourages even preschool-age children to think about the important questions: „Who am I?“ and „What makes me me?“

Clonk! What was that? Michi looks and is soon pulling a message in a bottle over the side of the ship – with a real treasure map inside! But the island where the treasure is hidden isn't marked anywhere on the map. Sharky and Michi are intrigued. They set sail, determined to find it ... not realising that it isn't just treasure that awaits them on the island, but a whole host of dangers from an ancient world! After two successful deepsea adventures, Capt'n Sharky dives into an exciting new world – full of strange, larger-than-life creatures who have survived through the ages.

- A child's-eye view of Switzerland
- Includes real letters

To be on the safe side, Sophie puts Felix into her rucksack before she and her family arrive in Zermatt on the Glacier Express. She doesn't want him disappearing again! But they have only just reached Switzerland when her rucksack is accidentally swapped with a mountaineer's ... Felix suddenly finds himself on the Matterhorn – and that's just the first stop on his Swiss adventure. This is the story of all the things that happen to the little rabbit between the Matterhorn and Basel, Alpine folk festivals, chocolate and bell factories, told with the help of four real letters and some surprising extras.

- First little non-fiction book about Easter
- Important topic

Every year, on the first Sunday after the Spring full moon, we celebrate Easter. In the most important festival of the Christian calendar, people remember the death and resurrection of Jesus. But where did Palm Sunday get its name? What is Maundy Thursday? And what happens on Good Friday? Using simple words and colourful pictures, this book explains what we celebrate at Easter.

Before the very first Christmas ... The shepherds in the fields around Bethlehem are asleep. All except little David. He is sad and crying. Yesterday he was supposed to watch over his father's sheep – but David wanted to play with his friend instead, and left the flock alone for a while. And when he came to gather them in again, the littlest sheep was missing! Then suddenly, an angel comes to him and the other shepherds! He has good news for them – news that will change everything ...

- High-quality gift for birth or baptism
- 25 of the best loved and most important stories from the Old and New Testaments
- For the whole family

Where once there was nothing, suddenly there is something. God has created it. He gives us night and day. First it's dark, and then it's light. "We need a sky as well," thinks God. „And lights for the day and the night." And so he creates the sun and moon. He decorates the night with stars and the day with a rainbow ... With simple words and colourful pictures, Erwin Grosche and Maria Wissmann tell 25 of the best loved stories from the Old and New Testaments, from creation to the resurrection of Jesus.

WE FIND INSPIRATION EVERYWHERE

250 Years of Copenrath – The publishing house Copenrath located at Münster’s harbour has a long history: Founded in 1768 by Josef Heinrich Copenrath the firm remained family-owned for over two centuries. In 1977 the young graphic artist and publisher Wolfgang Hölker took over, giving the company a completely new direction with his innovative ideas. Today, children’s and gift books are the backbone of this privately-owned company. “I have to be proud of the books that I publish”, Wolfgang Hölker says.

So arose a program for the production of ambitious books of high visual quality – always with that special something. A particular strength is the emphasis on supporting book series and characters with non-book products – even internationally, through Die Spiegelburg International (www.spiegelburg-international.com).

In addition, Copenrath imprint Hölker Verlag is an award-winning program – publishing unique, visually-appealing and well-researched cookery and lifestyle books. (www.hoelker-verlag.de)
